What is a casement window?

A casement window is a type of operable window that swings outward, similar to a hinged door. Its sash is attached to the frame using friction stays on either the left or right side. Casement windows can be incorporated into any style of home. The sleek window frame offers a modern appearance, featuring a large, unobstructed pane of glass. If you prefer a traditional look, adding colonial bars can create a timeless design.

Ideal location

The ideal placement for a casement window is in areas where maximum ventilation is desired. Positioning them strategically to capture prevailing winds and facing towards the centre of a room can significantly enhance airflow. When open, casement windows are effective at catching breezes because they swing outward like a sail, directing the wind into your home.
